

Cookie Policy

Cookie Policy and Notice

Cookies

Cookies are small text files which are sent to your browser by a web server and stored on your personal computer's hard disk. We use cookies on our site to:

- Cut down the number of times you have to type in data;
- Record the success of advertising, to target advertising and to track visitor usage; and
- Track responses to regular customer surveys and to make sure you don't see the same survey more than once.

The cookies used on the website do not collect your personal information. You can disable cookies but if you do, you may not be able to use certain features on our site and you may need to enter your password more frequently.

If you want to know how to remove cookies from your browser, go to the All About Cookies website.

Transparent gif files

Some of our webpages may contain invisible electronic tags that allow us to count users that have visited certain pages. These files are only used to identify which advertisements bring customers to our website and you cannot be identified by them. They are not issued by us but by the relevant advertising provider. You can find out more about cookie type devices issued by third party advertisers by clicking through to the website operated by the relevant advertiser. In any event, you can find out more information about electronic tags, if you go to the All About Cookies website